

Computer Training

Being computer-literate and proficient is an important part of many jobs. In many cases, training can have a huge impact on your employment success. We offer personalized or group training on the following adaptive software programs:

Mission
Oak Hill enhances independence and quality of life for people with disabilities, including visual impairments, by setting the standard in providing innovative solutions, program excellence, services and advocacy.

If you are blind or visually impaired, unemployed and interested in achieving economic independence through meaningful employment, Oak Hill can help. Our qualified staff can:

- ❖ identify your strengths;
- ❖ provide computer training;
- ❖ enhance your interview skills;
- ❖ find job opportunities; and
- ❖ identify transportation options.

Steven Famiglietti, is the Vocational Services Manager for People who are Blind or Visually Impaired. Legally blind since birth, Steve has spent many years working with adaptive technology and has seen first hand how it can play a major role in allowing people with low vision or total blindness to have the same opportunities as their sighted peers.

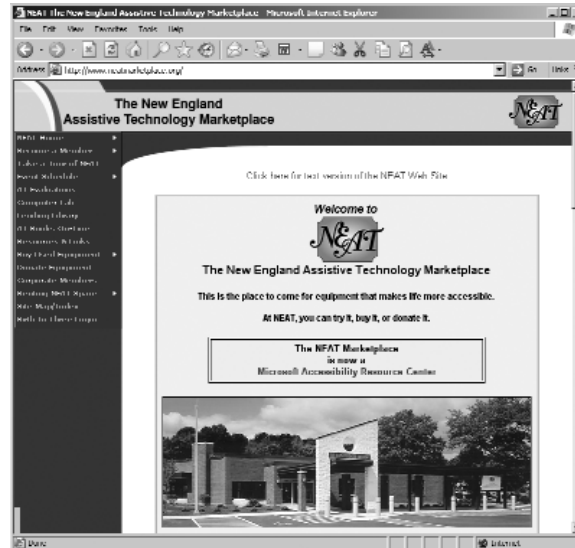

“Working full-time has provided me with so many benefits - self confidence, intellectual stimulation, socialization, and independence,” says Steve. “I am excited and eager to work with you in finding part-time or full-time employment.”

For more information, to discuss how employment would effect disability income, or to receive this brochure in an accessible format, please contact:
